TOOTH TALK

Q: How long should I wear my retainers?

A: This is a difficult question because each patient has a different relapse potential. After the braces are removed, we generally recommend full-time wear for one to four weeks, and then at night for approximately three years. During the third year, we recommend starting a gradual phase-out program. Retainers are worn six nights a week, evaluated; five nights a week, evaluated; etc until it is firmly established that the teeth are staying in place. This retainer phase-out procedure works well for most patients. Some patients, however, require continued nighttime retainer wear for a longer period.

Q: Do I need my wisdom teeth (3rd molars) removed? Why? When?

A: Typically, it is recommended to remove wisdom teeth during the late adolescent period (15 – 19 years old); however, sometimes wisdom teeth are removed earlier in life, and can even be removed into adulthood. The decision to remove wisdom teeth is made by a dentist. So, what are the reasons wisdom teeth are so frequently removed? First and foremost, wisdom teeth are removed because there is lack of room in the mouth. When there isn't enough room, these teeth can become impacted or stuck below the gums. Cysts can then grow around the wisdom teeth and cause bone loss. Wisdom teeth can also erupt partially in the mouth and become a food trap. This food trap can be a source of chronic infection and possibly cause gum disease and cavities to adjacent teeth.
